Dear Nikolai Petrov and Ivan Butkevych

It was a pleasure reading about your app, downloading the beta version, and trying it out. The concept is great, I would apply it to so many other things. I love the idea of gamifying it and my head has not stopped thinking about what else could be done, but surely you have already thought about everything.

For many years I did martial arts and the pleasure of concentrating on your activity, have a routine, control your breathing, to overcome your limits, mental strength... Although I am not a very avid runner lately, (for health, weight and time limit reasons) I understand the pleasure that one can feel with it perfectly and even though it is an individual pleasure, like all pleasures, sometimes sharing it makes them much better.

Maybe we can help each other... I still have things to practice and learn and I'm looking forward to applying the knowledge I've gained in the real world. I would like to know more about my work and come to an understanding of whether we are a good match for each other.

Thanks for your time. I hope we can talk soon.
